The marriage of Miss Sophie Hvidos, of Maple Leaf, to Mr. John Baruto, of Coleman, was solemnized by Rev. Father O'Dea at Bellevue on Saturday forenoon.

A certain young husband went to a party without reporting home. Here's what happened: At 6 p.m. his wife laid out his dress suit, shirt and studs. He did not appear. At 11 p.m. she laid out his pyjamas. He didn't turn up. At 3 a.m. he turned up—then she laid him out.

LOUIS VERMETTE PASSES

Resident of The Pass or Alberta for upwards of thirty years, a well known and most highly respected citizen passed to the Great Beyond on Sunday forenoon in the person of Louis Vermette, better known as "Louie the Cook."

Louie had never known sickness until quite recently, when he was stricken with weakness which continued to bring him down. Up to the last minute, however, he maintained consciousness and conversed freely with friends who visited him at the hospital or later at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Ennis, where he spent the waning days of his life.

Deceased was of French-Canadian birth, born at St. Malachi in the Province of Quebec on November the 14th, 1861. Saturday, the day previous to his passing, was his seventy-fifth birthday, a milestone to which he looked forward and would have been satisfied to attain. His wish in this respect at least was granted and he passed away the following day.

As far as is known locally two sisters survive, residing in northern Quebec. He had looked forward to paying them a visit during 1936 or 1937.

Deceased was a member of Father LaCombe Council, K. of C.

Funeral service was held at St. Anne's church on Tuesday morning, conducted by Rev. Dean M. A. Harrington, and the remains were laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery. Many beautiful floral tributes adorned the casket. Funeral arrangements were in charge of A. E. Ferguson, of the Crows' Nest Undertaking Co.

The following acted as pallbearers: Samuel Ennis, Daniel Lewis, James F. Smith, James Gray, J. P. O'Neill and J. A. McDonald (Coleman).

George Maniquet sustained injury to his foot at the mine last week, but is able to be around. Andrew Drobec also sustained an injury to his knee.

John Spence, former Blairmore police chief, now a member of the Red Deer city force, met with an accident last week that necessitated his removal to hospital. Jumping from a police car to catch a fleeing motorist, he stumbled to the ground, sustaining considerable injury.

MRS. HOUBREGS LAID TO REST

The remains of Mrs. L. Houbregs were brought in from Calgary by last Friday night's train, and were laid to rest here on Sunday afternoon, the local arrangements being in charge of Flock's Memorial Funeral Company, of Lethbridge.

The funeral was one of the largest attended in the history of Blairmore. Besides some forty cars, mostly containing relatives and friends, members of the miners unions and many other citizens joined in the procession.

Service was conducted at the home and at the graveside.

All members of the family, excepting Jollett Houbregs, were present, including Mrs. Wilfred Wheatley (Mary), of Trail; Mrs. Angelo Gentile (Florence), of Coleman; Mrs. George Patterson (Julia), of Blairmore; Philip, of Blairmore, and Miss Minnie Houbregs, of Lethbridge. Mr. Louis Houbregs, who had been taking medical treatment at Calgary, was also present.

Floral tributes were many and beautiful, and were received from the following: Oakland Hockey Club, Oakland, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. R. Barnhill and Robert; Bio and Olga; Mr. and Mrs. William Oliver and family; Mr. and Mrs. A. Montalbeti, Brockett; Mr. and Mrs. Tony Stella and family; Mrs. Chabateau and son; Mr. and Mrs. Perrot; Mr. and Mrs. Danny Mills and Oliver; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Patterson and family; Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Morency; Mr. and Mrs. C. Minnie and family; Joe Degroote, Kimberley; Mrs. Snowden and former girls of the Tea Kettle Inn, Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Larbaletier; Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Thompson; Mrs. F. M. Pinkney and Roland; C. Fabro; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. H. Pinkney; Mr. and Mrs. John Kubik and family; Central Meat Market, Blairmore; Mrs. Hutton and family, Lethbridge; The Family; Columbia Chapter 32, O.E.S., Trail; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Houze and Louisa; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Bettenger, Coleman; Ernest Bettenger and Armond Houze, Coleman and Blairmore; Bessie and family; Mr. and Mrs. Godofred and Johnny; Mr. and Mrs. Koentgens and son, Bellevue; Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Mitchell and family, Coleman; Mr. Mrs. A. Gentile, Coleman; Mr. and Mrs. Gus Erikson and Yvonne; May, Gladys, Nina and Dora; The Blairmore Canucks Baseball Club; Mrs. A. Dobek and family; Mrs. A. Ennis and Mrs. L. Pont; Mr. and Mrs. F. Lucetti; French and Belgian Friends; Mr. and Mrs. C. Bonne and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilton; Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Gentile, Coleman; The Wheatleys, Banff; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Evans and family; Mrs. A. Decoux.

Mr. Houbregs and family desire through The Enterprise to extend to all those who in any way assisted or offered assistance during the illness of their beloved wife and mother; and particularly the doctors and Nurse Willows, the latter being untiring in her efforts to alleviate sufferings during her illness. They would also thank all those who sent floral and other expressions of respect and sympathy; also those who so kindly lent cars and attended the last rites.

Twenty years ago, the marriage of Miss Duxie MacMillan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. MacMillan, of the Cowley hotel, to George H. Van Allen, of Edmonton, was solemnized at Spokane.

Those competing in the big baking contest being staged in Blairmore on the 28th could gain some idea of the method of judging to be adopted by calling at The Enterprise office, where specimens of the score cards may be seen. Mr. Harry Meade, of Bellevue, has been appointed judge. He is an experienced baker and judge, and has agreed to act. See ad elsewhere in this issue.

Gladys McKelvie Egbert, brilliant Calgary pianist, has been elected a fellow of the Royal Academy of Music, London, England, being the highest honor the academy can confer. Glyndwr Jones, also of Calgary, is the only other person on the North American continent to have been so honored.

They took occasion to visit local district beer emporiums, as well as vendor stores. Mr. Huggill attended the banquet tendered Mr. Justice Shepherd at Lethbridge on Tuesday evening.

William Carter, well known traveling fiddler, recently left for his old home in England, his fare having been purchased with coppers and silver pieces earned during his travels across Canada. He estimated that he received 10,000 coppers during the last seven years, and his proud boast was that he never went hungry in that time. An orphan, he came to Canada in 1900.

BLAIRMORE JUNIOR HOCKEY CLUB

The members of the Blairmore Junior Hockey Club wish to thank all who helped in anyway to make the tag day, organized by them on Saturday, November 14th, successful. The sum realized has been placed in the bank and will go toward equipping the team.

At a meeting held in Hillcrest on Tuesday, November 17th, it was decided to form a two-team league with the possible inclusion of Pincher Creek later. Each club to appoint two for an executive to draw up schedule.

NEW CODE OF PRICES FOR ALBERTA PRINTING

The new provincial printers' code board having been set up by the department of trade and industry and the new code price list being in effect, henceforth anyone in Alberta requiring job printing will pay the same price for the work regardless of where in the province he places the order.

All printing firms in Alberta must first obtain a license, the cost of this being based on a sliding scale, and also being governed by the new price code; the code also regulates firms outside the boundaries of the province who send their salesmen into Alberta for orders.

The schedule of prices was drawn up by a committee of lifetime printers and are fair and equitable, and these are now approved by the officials of the department. The prices now in effect are fixed and permit no leeway.

In respect, therefore, it will pay the local merchants to keep their money at home by supporting the Blairmore Enterprise with their job printing orders, and resting assured that the same high-class service can still be secured right in town.

The highest form of social service is the community spirit which "keeps the money spread around at home!"

Rev. Arthur J. Sinclair, B.A., B.D., of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, has accepted the invitation to become pastor of St. Andrew's at Macleod, succeeding Rev. P. C. An Ontario paper has this to say about Alberta lemons. "Alberta reports that a lemon four inches in diameter has been grown southeast of Edmonton. Those who have become tired of waiting for Social Credit dividends would probably say that there have been other big lemons produced in that province."

It has been said that, with the possible exception of underwear, practically everything a man wears is now made in Western Canada and that, with the exception of hosiery and underwear, nearly all of women's requirements are made in the west, even though in some cases in a small way. Although the progress of the industry has been steady, there is marked room for expansion, according to a recent survey made by the Industrial Development Board of Manitoba. The dress industry, for instance, has a market of nearly $5,000,000 in the Prairie Provinces, whereas the output is less than $200,000. The hosiery market is in excess of $2,000,000, but none are produced in the West. In the men's factory clothing field, the potential manufacturing possibilities have been barely scratched and with loyal support from Western people, it is said that hundreds of people can be employed in industries of this kind.

JOBLESS JAILED ON COAST

A fresh phase of the problem of the single unemployed is manifesting itself in British Columbia at the moment. The "transients" without means of support are showing up in Vancouver—and landing in jail for begging. A couple of hundred are now in prison for terms ranging up to three months, and more are expected to follow their companions.

Last Friday Vancouver newspapers carried the news that sixty single unemployed were already in jail, that on that particular morning another one hundred appeared in magistrate's court, and that the number of transients without means appearing on the streets was increasing by about fifty each day. It was estimated that in the not distant future all Vancouver's penal institutions would be full.

These British Columbia offenders are men drifting into Vancouver against the winter. They have resorted to selling artificial flowers on the streets to draw public notice to their case. The first men arrested were charged with obstructing the police, but subsequent defendants have been charged with begging.

Jailing single unemployed is no solution of the problem they represent, of course. It is making criminals out of men who are thinking about food and shelter during the cold months and who flock back to the cities as the best places to find them. They naturally draw attention to their predicament. Protests have been sent to Ottawa regarding the methods used and appealing to the government to do something about the situation. The fact is that there will be many thousands of single homeless demanding food and warmth this winter, and unless jobs are found for them—which is unlikely—some other means will have to be tried to tide them over the seventh winter of the depression.—Ottawa Citizen.

Mrs. Wilfred Wheatley came down from Trail on Friday's train to attend the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Houbregs. Miss Minnie Houbregs also came up from Lethbridge, returning Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Jollett Houbregs, of Seattle, were unable to be present. They, however, visited Mrs. Houbregs while she was in hospital at Calgary.

The Unemployment and Relief Problem

When a writer is able to produce unchallenged and apparently unchallengeable figures in support of a contention that governmental debts in Canada—federal, provincial and municipal—have increased in the five-year period from 1930 to 1935 to an amount closely approximating the debt created for Canadians during the Great War and ensuing demobilization period, he is revealing a situation that is not only serious but startling, and a situation that warrants his comment that unemployment is the major problem facing the people of the Dominion to-day.

For there is no gainsaying the fact that practically all indebtedness incurred by governmental agencies during the last five or six years is the direct result of unemployment and the necessity for providing for the relief of those who were unable to find work for themselves or, in the case of the farmers, who were unable to secure sufficient return from their labors to provide them with a living.

Yet this condition of affairs was demonstrated recently in a series of articles by the Ottawa correspondent of a Western daily newspaper—the Regina Star, when he showed that the debt of the country including its integral provinces and municipalities, together with the C.N.R., harbor commissions and allied undertakings increased by $1,780,388,051 in the five-year period from 1930 to 1935 in comparison with an increase of $1,912,252,018 in the national debt during the five actual combat years of the war and the subsequent year of demobilization.

While this is a heavy load to carry it might not be so bad if the problem were solved and the expenditure and piling up of indebtedness on account of unemployment and relief were a thing of the past, but unfortunately this is not the case. In some parts of the Dominion, despite some improvement in economic conditions, there are still large numbers of unemployed and relief expenditures are still being made on large scale, which means, of course, that the burden of debt on this account is still accumulating.

Not only has the problem not yet been solved but the same writer, in another article of the series, quotes Dominion Bureau of Statistics data to show that while economically the country is half way on the road to recovery expenditures for relief, direct and indirect, have only declined 11 per cent. below the peak of the depression.

These facts and figures demonstrate quite clearly that efforts to solve the problem by all or any governmental units to date have had very little effect and that something more must yet be done if reduction in relief expenditure is to keep pace with the gradual return to normal employment conditions.

One of the measures which might well be adopted in an effort to minimize to some extent the burden which is piling up against present and future generations of taxpayers is a thorough investigation to determine the extent to which relief recipients have been and are abusing direct relief, and by weeding out all those who are racketeering by refusing to take advantage of opportunity to work when they have a chance to do so for reasonable remuneration or who deliberately misrepresent earnings or in any other manner secure public assistance to which they are not entitled, wholly or in part.

This should be done, not only in the interests of those who are self-supporting and are called upon to assist in supporting others but in the interests of the unemployed and relief recipients themselves, for the minority who are evading their responsibilities are a millstone around the necks of the great majority of deserving relief recipients.

Sufficient evidence appears in the press from time to time in all parts of the country to support the statement that a percentage of relief recipients are guilty of abuse and refuse to play cricket. For example it was recently reported that Hon. Mr. Groll sent investigators into a small municipality in Ontario to find that 22 relief recipients were driving their own automobiles. In other parts of the country appear reports of physically able men refusing to work and of abuses in other forms.

Said the Toronto Mail and Empire recently: "The public authorities must increase their efforts to comb out the won't-works from the ranks of those on relief, though those who cannot yet find work must continue to be furnished with food, clothing and shelter until they become self-supporting."

The weeding out of the undeserving, however, will not wholly solve the problem by any means. There are still far too many unemployed, in fact the great majority on relief, who are willing and anxious to work if they could only get it. The only permanent and effective cure for the unemployment problem is the absorption of all who are able to work by industry. If the new federal unemployment commission can achieve this they will earn the gratitude of the entire nation and not only of the self-supporting taxpayers but the majority of those who are still unfortunate enough to need state aid.

How Romans Used Cinnamon

One Way Was Burning It As Incense To Gods

The Romans used cinnamon in ointments and balms, as well as in their cooking. It was also burned as incense when a god was to be appeased or the shade of a departed spirit honored, cinnamon was added to the ceremonial fire. The biggest cinnamon fire ever recorded was built by Nero as part of the funeral rites for his wife, Poppaea. It is said he burned more than one entire year's importation on that occasion.

The British army had only 387 desertions during 1935, as compared with 565 in 1924.

Wins National Championship

Elderly Hardware Dealer Has Longest Beard In Japan

Maioji Kato's beard, so long he has to be careful not to trip over it, won the national championship as the longest in Japan. The 72-year-old patriarchal hardware dealer, is only five feet, one inch tall. His beard is five feet, six inches long, and it causes him plenty of trouble. Kato stuffs one end of his flowing white whiskers in a specially made bandage to keep them from dragging on the ground.

The word "traffic" is derived from the Arabic "ta-rift," which means a notification or inventory.

Using Ultraviolet Rays

New Electrical Device Is Aid To Butcher And Baker

That ultraviolet rays kill small organisms like bacteria and algae is one of those things which was discovered in the laboratory as a fact of pure science and is now being adapted to practical applications. An article in the Electric Journal, abstracted in the Journal of the Franklin Institute, showed that ultraviolet "bacteria guns" are finding their way into industry.

These publications had kind words to say of the "Sterilamp," a Westinghouse product. A series of long, narrow tubes shedding their garish blue light on meat in a butcher's showcase foils bacterial attack so successfully that only moderate refrigeration is necessary. Meat packers who "tender" their meats by hanging or aging (allowing enzymes to break down the tough fibers) now find it safe to speed up the tendering process by using warmer temperatures under violet-day protection. Bakers who irradiate bread and cake before wrapping, to kill-mold spores, increase the salable life of the product by several days.

Newspapers Kept Going

Depression Hit Them Hard But Standard Well Maintained

It is no secret among newspapermen that the depression has hit the newspapers hard. Services were maintained at the same standard while revenues were falling and, too, often reserves built up during prosperous years had to be seriously depleted to meet expenditures. Probably in no other business were wages interfered with as little. In many instances, too, it has been investments outside the newspaper business which have helped to keep newspapers going.

There is to-day among newspapermen, however, as there is among other business men, a feeling of optimism. Canada is once again on the upgrade, and during the next 12 months there undoubtedly will be a decided improvement in business. This will be reflected in many directions, and the hope will be that it will result in a decided increase in employment.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

Germany Warns Merchants

Must Not Raise Prices If Food Supplies Are Short

What is described as a "last warning" to German shopkeepers not to allow the prices of foodstuffs to rise was issued recently by the German police president, Herr Feldt.

The measures are to stop prices rising during a "temporary shortage" of supplies.

The police president's announcement says: "I have closed down for good a shop at 43 Petersburgerstrasse, belonging to Philip Greiff, who has been repeatedly fined for charging excessive prices, and have had him taken to protective custody."

"Anyone who thinks that he can take advantage of the shortage of supplies by unjust price manipulation shows himself to be an enemy of the community, and will be treated as such."

The governor of Baden has issued a similar warning in his district.

Has Lion As Bodyguard

Animal Accompanies Swami Even On His Social Visits

When the Swami Krishnanandji, of Jageshwar, near Bombay, went to pay his respects to the new Viceroy at Simla he took his lion with him. A stream of children, messengers, and native servants followed the Swami's rickshaw, where he sat with his pet on one side and a dog on the other. The man and beast were well received, especially by Lord Lindlithgow's family, who were the party.

The Swami, a philosopher by profession, on observing this ceremony said gravely that the great people of the land might need such animal protection for a simple soul like himself a lion was enough. Wherever the Swami goes the lion is with him. In train or omnibus it sits beside him, while other passengers move to other seats.

Interesting Relics

Reminders Of Old R.N.W.M.P. Post In 1878

Three interesting relics, a desk, a flag pole, and a flag, at Wood Mountain, Sask., are reminders of the establishment of old post of R.N.W.M.P. in 1878.

The desk, grown gray with age, for it was the first one brought west by the Mounted Police in a Red River cart for the post at Wood Mountain, is now in the store of W. J. Moore in the new hamlet of Wood Mountain.

This old oak desk and filing case is much similar to the desks of to-day with two drawers on each side of the cubby where the feet rest. There are 20 spaces for files, and during the half century or more that it has been in use, it has held some important documents, particularly those relating to the Indian wars, incursions of the Sioux from Montana, and horse and cattle rustling cases.

The flag pole from which flies the Union Jack at the new post, is the same one used more than 50 years ago, and is just as good as the day it was first erected. The original flag flown from this pole is also in the possession of the mounted police. It is too "tattered and torn" to be flown now, but forms a memento of those hectic days, that will always bring to mind some of the stirring times in the south country, when the mounted force was "law and order."

Another institution at Wood Mountain is the annual round-up and rodeo. For 53 years this annual event of the south has been going on, and has attracted thousands. Lending color to the great gathering every year is the part played by the Indians of the Wood Mountain reserve, some of whom attended the rodeo last year. At times during the Indian border troubles there were as many as 50 men in the detachment of the mounted police at Wood Mountain. Now there are two men. The force at the old post was disbanded in 1916.

Under Any Circumstance Monocle Stays In Englishman's Eye

When an Englishman wears a monocle, he wears it. No matter how exciting the circumstances, the eye stays right in his eye.

So when Major Herbert Musker had to make a forced landing in a field, he stepped from the cockpit of his private airplane with his monocle firmly fixed in its accustomed place in his eye.

They still delight to tell the story of an English aviation official who arrived in Montreal. On a windy day he started to climb down the mooring mast at the airport on the outskirts of the city. It was considered something of a feat to make the hazardous trip in a high wind, but when the English visitor reached the ground his monocle was still screwed firmly in place.— Windsor Daily Star.

For Promoting Peace

Pan-Pacific Women's Association To Hold Conference

The Pan-Pacific Women's Association, by vote of member countries bordering on the Pacific ocean, will hold its triennial conference in Vancouver, July 12-24 next. It was announced. The dates are tentative. Since the 1934 Honolulu conference the association has taken for its objective, "practical ways and means of promoting peace and understanding among the women of Pacific countries."

To further this they have taken for study topics relating to the subject. The topics include, "Youth Movements for Peace," directed by Dame Katherine Furse, London; "Traffic In Arms," by Dame Rachel Crowdy, London; "Technique For Developing Public Opinion," Emily Newell Blair, Washington; "Labor Standards and Standards for Living," Mrs. Monterey, Philadelphia; "Population Pressure," Mrs. Marie Keisling, Honolulu, formerly of New Zealand.

Mrs. Mary L. Bollett, Dean of women at the University of British Columbia, is chairman of the Canadian section. The National Council of Women will hold its annual convention in Vancouver early in July and it is expected several leaders in that organization will stay over for the Pan-Pacific conference.

British Citizenship

Hon. Wesley Gordon Explains What It Means To World

During his recent visit to this part of the country, we asked the Hon. Wesley Gordon what was a good point to make in order to explain just what citizenship in the British Empire meant, what value it had, as far as the rest of the world was concerned.

"Go into one of the Balkan states," he said, "and tell them you're a Canadian, and when they look at you with surprise, puzzlement and distrust, produce your British passport." "The point Mr. Gordon was making was that while we of the British family of nations don't always think so much of each other or of 'the old lady,' the rest of the world has a great and deep respect for that alliance.—North Bay Nugget.

Sold For Begging Purposes

Blind Children In China Used By Wealthy Merchants

China was described to the board of trade club in Toronto as a land where four-five and six-year-old children were forced to work 18 hours a day in filthy small rooms lit by candle light.

The speaker, Captain R. G. Cavell, general manager of Canadian Telephone and Supplies, Limited, and a former resident of China, told of seeing some of these children go blind at the age of 12, after which they were sold to wealthy Chinese merchants to make a profession out of purchasing human wrecks for begging purposes.

Zeppelins Salute Each Other

Germany's silvery air giants met over the South Atlantic beneath a bright moon—passing so close that passengers on the zeppelins Hindenburg and Graf greeted each other. The Syndicato Condor said that the meeting, reported by radio by the Graf's commander, occurred 300 miles west of the Cape Verde Islands.

According to government statistics, there are 2,968,813 men and women without work in fourteen leading cities of China. Canton heads the list with 650,250. Shanghai has 650,710.

A Suitable Name

Late Sir Edgar Britten Was Called Knight Of The Atlantic

They called Sir Edgar T. Britten "the knight of the Atlantic" after he was knighted in the New Year's honors of 1934; and the sobriquet was apt. In his 49 years at sea, he commanded seventeen Cunard liners. The last of these was the Queen Mary. The "knight of the Atlantic" was on the bridge when the Queen Mary first put out to sea; and he was there when she made the blue ribbon crossing which confirmed her title as queen of the Atlantic.

Two hours before the Queen Mary was due to sail from Southampton, Sir Edgar suffered a stroke in his cabin. He was taken ashore where he died.

Through all the honors which came to him, this knight of the sea remained a simple sailor. When the late King George V. conferred knighthood on him, Sir Edgar said, "The honor belongs not so much to me as to the merchant marine generally." On the Queen Mary's arrival in New York after her first voyage, a ship news reporter who he knew greeted the commodore as "Sir Ed" and received the explosive reply: "Sir Edgar be damned! It's Britten to you."

When Sir Edgar saw the Queen Mary for the first time at Clydebank, where she was built, he merely remarked: "That is a pretty nice ship." After her first voyage, he became less reserved in comment and conceded that the Queen Mary "behave herself as a lady." When the Cunard White Star line officials were blandly denying any ambitions to set speed records, Sir Edgar bluntly declared: "Win the blue ribbon—that's what we built her for. And we will do it soon."

And he did.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

TWO DESTROYERS TO BE PURCHASED BY DOMINION

Ottawa.—The Dominion government is purchasing from Great Britain two modern destroyers, built in 1931, to replace the "Champlain" and "Vancouver" which have become practically obsolete and are due for scrapping at the end of the year. Prime Minister Mackenzie King made the announcement.

The new destroyers are to be practically identical with the Siguany and Skeena, which are a part of Canada's naval defence and which were also completed in 1931. Cost and further particulars of the new craft will be announced when parliament is asked to vote the necessary appropriation.

Any further announcement with respect to defence policies, the prime minister said, would be made before parliament by Defence Minister Ian MacKenzie. Date of parliament's opening is not fixed but it is still the intention of the government to assemble as early as may be possible in January.

Following is the official statement in which purchase of the new destroyers was announced.

The destroyers Champlain and Vancouver, which were borrowed from the British government in 1928 and have since been maintained by Canada as a part of the Canadian naval service, have become practically obsolete and under treaty provisions are due for scrapping by the end of this year. To the question of their replacement the government has given careful consideration since taking office.

Following negotiations carried on since that time, an arrangement has recently been concluded under which Canada will purchase from the British government two modern destroyers which were completed in 1931. When the necessary refittings have been carried out, the new ships, like the ones being replaced, will be manned by Canadian crews. It is expected that they will be taken over in the early part of 1937.

Factors of time and economy have rendered this course preferable to the alternative of ordering new construction. The ships to be purchased are almost identical, in size and equipment, with the Canadian destroyers Siguany and Skeena, which also were completed in 1931 and which the Canadian naval staff consider to be efficient and suited to the needs of the service.

Upon taking over the new ships Canada will have a homogeneous unit of torpedo craft of the most modern type.

It is anticipated, the prime minister said, that the new destroyers will be given the same treatment as the ones they replace. Once the transfer is made the two vessels will be manned by Canadian officers and crews as was the case with those destroyers previously transferred to the Canadian navy.

Great Britain Plans To Make Gas Masks For Civilians

London.—Great Britain "very shortly" will be producing free gas masks for civilians at a rate of 2,000,000 monthly, Geoffrey Lloyd, under-secretary of the home office, told the House of Commons.

Under questions by members of parliament, Lloyd declared: "Substantial stocks of component parts of civilian respirators have already been produced, and they are expected to be on large scale assembly by March."

The masks, he said, will be issued free "in event of an emergency."

Newspapers As A Guide

Should Not Allow Its News Columns To Be Colored By Bias

Toronto.—When business leaders tend to "spin their faith to radio" it is important that they realize the principles governing all self-respecting newspapers and importance of those papers in providing guidance through their editorial columns. When it does wrong, Mr. Bassett said in a speech at the dinner of the Canadian automobile chamber of commerce.

"Newspapers have changed in three particulars during the years and these changes are recognized. The first is that to-day, none will allow its news columns to be colored by bias.

"The second change is the importance of its editorial columns. It has been said that as car-loadings go down, this importance of editorial columns goes up. To-day with institutions crumbling and the people crying for guidance, it comes from those columns. No forum for the discussion of truth is so strong as free. A free press means a free people. That is no myth; it is as important as the air we breathe. It is the shining armor we wear.

"The third great change is in the tendency to break away from slavish adherence to political parties. Newspapers exist to-day as self-supporting institutions, controlled by men who have a vital stake in the community."

British Defences

Will Use Balloons To Trap Attacking Enemy Planes

London.—Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for defence co-ordination, told the House of Commons Great Britain's munitions output would be extended in 1937 and continued until 1940 on an increasing scale for the empire's defence.

Sir Thomas spoke for the government in the first debate on the vital defence issue.

"Another war," he asserted, "is not inevitable if we take the proper measures."

He disclosed that orders had been given for "new and powerful guns" required for aerial defence, and added that defence plans were being made for counter-attacks.

An extensive "balloon barrage," meaning a system of nets suspended between balloons to trap attacking enemy planes, would be necessary for the defence of London, Sir Thomas said.

He also disclosed that more than 2,400 pilots had been accepted for training since the beginning of British rearmament a year ago last May, out of 12,000 applicants.

Twenty thousand men, he said, have enlisted in the ground forces.

"We believe the capacity, speed and range of our new types of aircraft is not inferior to any existing abroad," asserted Sir Thomas.

"The army has been largely strengthened both in equipment and personnel."

Liner Battles Wild Storm

Several Passengers On R.M.S. Queen Mary Were Injured

Southampton.—The giant liner Queen Mary docked at Southampton after successfully riding out a wild Atlantic storm which brought injuries to a number of her passengers.

Frank Giffin, 73, residing near Tiverton, Devon, was shot 30 feet across one of the ship's rooms as she rolled in mountainous seas lashed up by 90-mile-an-hour winds. He was taken to a hospital here when the Queen Mary docked and died from his injuries. Other passengers suffered minor injuries.

Capt. R. V. Peel, his face drawn with fatigue after being on the bridge for almost 60 hours without interruption, said "I've never seen such a storm, lasting so long."

Describing the Queen Mary's efforts to rescue the Hamburg-American freighter Isis, which sank in the storm, Capt. Peel said: "We circled round three hours. We saw a hatch, pieces of wood, and a ship's boat floating on the water. Although we circled around three times we saw no human beings."

Sales Averaged $605 Per Head For Pure Bred Holsteins

Chicago.—Thirty-two buyers from ten states, Canada and Puerto Rico paid a total of $42,340 for 70 head of pure bred Holstein cattle as the first half of the Elmwood Farm herd, winners of many national awards, went on the auction block at the Elmwood farm in suburb Lake Forest.

J. E. Mack, Fort Atkinson, Wis., and Walter F. Andrews, Beach City, O., auctioneers, estimated the sales averaged $605 per head, which they said was the highest average price paid for Holstein cattle in many years. Nine head sold from $1,000 to $3,500 per head and 19 others brought from $500 to $900 each.

BRITAIN DECLARES POLICY TOWARDS SPAIN UNCHANGED

London.—Great Britain is considering no change in its non-intervention policy towards Spain and has received no information France contemplates such action, Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons. Eden was reminded by Frederick Cocks, Labor, that Premier Blum declared France would be ready to lift its embargo on arms shipments to Spain in the event such action was also taken by Britain. The foreign secretary was asked "whether he was considering taking such concerted action."

Eden replied: "The honorable member will recall that in course of the debate on Oct. 29 I quoted the statement which the French representative on the international committee made, as reported in the communiqué, the preceding day, regarding his government's attitude on non-intervention in Spain."

"The statement was as follows: 'The French government maintained in its entirety their attitude regarding the non-intervention agreement and would take all possible steps toward securing effective application of the agreement, for adoption whereof they had taken the initiative in the interests of European peace. They would therefore examine any practical scheme of control that might be submitted and would participate in any measure that might be accepted by all participating governments.'"

"His Majesty's government have received no communication, official or otherwise, to suggest the French government has modified the attitude set forth in this statement."

Urges Militia For Canada

National Defence Official Says Dominion Must Be Prepared

Ottawa.—"Canada must be prepared to take her place, whatever that place may be, if the call comes," Major-General E. C. Ashton, chief of the general staff, department of national defence, said at an Armistice dinner here.

"We have our job to do," he said. "We soldiers have nothing to do with policy. That is a matter for the Canadian government and will be settled by the government, should any difficulties arise. I have no inkling of what this policy may be."

"But just as the army of Canada was made out of the non-permanent militia, trained before the war, who were ready to take in the new men and train them; just as the C.E.F. was made out of the militia, so must any effort in the future be founded on the non-permanent militia of this country."

Major-General Ashton said Great Britain was arming now but it would take a year and a half or perhaps two years to get into the desired shape.

London.—King Edward, unnoticed by the public, paid an informal visit to the field of remembrance at Westminster Abbey, planting there a plain wooded cross inscribed "In memory of His Majesty King George V."

After standing bareheaded for several minutes, he trudged through other mourners in heavy rain through pools of water to examine the miniature fields of red poppies. His Majesty purchased two poppies from an exhibitor, and was placing a bundle of bills in the collection box.

Before leaving, he was recognized, first by a number of children. He was wearing a felt hat and a dark overcoat.

SAYS ISOLATION IS SHORT-SIGHTED POLICY TO ADOPT

Ottawa.—Isolation is a short-sighted policy for Canada and the days when isolation was a practical policy have gone, Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., told guests at an Armistice Day dinner of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League here.

One of the most noted Canadian airmen in the last war, Air Vice-Marshal Bishop warned his comrades in arms the Canadian people might again be called upon to make sacrifices for freedom, the most precious heritages of the British race.

"There is a school of thought in this Dominion," he said, "which, taking refuge under the wings of the Monroe doctrine, says that Canada will never be attacked by a foreign power while the United States are on this continent. It is true we are Americans because we live on the American continent. It is also true we are Canadians because we are Canadian citizens. But it is true, first, last and all the time that we are citizens of the British commonwealth of nations."

"Experience of the United States in the last war proved the impossibility of isolation."

"Canada would be a strategic point for the invasion of the United States by a foreign power," the speaker went on. "But a Canada able to protect herself and repel such an invasion would be an invaluable ally to the United States."

"I am reminded that this country, due to its diverse population, has been rent in twain during several elections in the last 40 years over the question of contribution to empire defence."

"Governments have differed on that question but I saw tonight that for the future it is not a question of politics, it is not a question of race against race, it is higher than that. It is a question of the preservation of the most precious thing that has been given to this country by the two great races which govern it, freedom."

Relying on the protection of the empire in the past, Canadians had become sort of spoiled children, asking all and giving little. Canada was dependent on a great export trade and had some of the greatest transportation systems in the world. "For the protection of these Canada relied on Great Britain. If the British empire had any obligations to Canada it followed with equal certainty that Canada had obligations to the empire."

"It is these days when Britain is straining every sinew to protect the heritage which is so dear to us," he said towards the end of his speech, "if it could be possible for this country to make a gesture in sympathy with an empire policy of protecting democratic freedom in a mad world when I would be proud to see Canada make such a gesture."

ACQUIT RUSSIA OF CHARGES OF AIDING MADRID

London.—The international non-intervention committee acquitted Russia of three Italian charges she had aided the Madrid government after a bitter denunciation of Russia by D'Amico, Grandi, Italian ambassador to London.

The committee decided three of the allegations by Italy against Russia had not been substantiated and adjourned, to await receipt of further information from Russia regarding a fourth Italian allegation.

Proceedings in the committee, which earlier had approved a plan to send neutral observers to the principal Spanish ports to guard against an inflow of arms, were disclosed in a communiqué.

Grandi launched into a general denunciation of Russia after Russian representatives had denied the charges leveled against their country.

The Italian ambassador declared Italy "accepted the challenge" of a Communist threat in Europe. "Russia even here assumes its recent disguise as a democratic lamb . . . and endeavors to whitewash the red flag of the Communist revolution," Grandi stated.

Referring to the Spanish government's flight from Madrid, the Italian diplomat stated:

"Thus ends, amidst fire and blood, the greatest attempt ever made by Bolshevism Russia to export their chaos, their crime and famine, beyond their frontiers."

"The Soviet representative has defined it as a creed of peace but the facts deny him. It is a creed based on class hatred and civil strife. It is the creed of the future."

"Stalin, chief of the Bolshevik revolution, said it was the duty of the U.S.S.R. to render every assistance within their power to the Spanish Communist revolution inasmuch as the liberation of Spain from Fascist oppression was not a private affair of the Spaniards but the common cause of Communism."

"We accept the challenge . . . Italy, in fact, is convinced that it is not only the future of Spain but the future of all civilized Europe that is at stake to-day."

The Italian's denunciation drew a quick retort from the Russian representative, Molotovitch Kagan.

"He," Kagan continued, "repeats himself in the way with a whiff reminiscent of the redskins' battleries in those tales which no doubt all of us read when we were young," Kagan said.

"If to-day we have to listen to the Italian representative piping a tune which Berlin has composed," Kagan continued, "then, though we may congratulate Berlin on 'victory,' we must condole with Rome on yielding her independence of approach in international matters, on surrendering her former sane attitude to the U.S.S.R. at the clamor of Berlin."

"We had no quarrel with Italy ourselves," Kagan said, "but from the moment she betrayed herself as an aggressor, from the moment she embarked on a war against a weak and defenceless people, that relationship obviously had to suffer."

"No amount of propaganda speeches for General Franco (leader of the Spanish insurgents) can hide the crying fact that Italy stands unmasked before the whole world as an aggressor and arch-violator of international treaties."

The World In Arms

8,200,000 Men Are Now Permanently Under Arms Throughout The World

Geneva.—The League of Nations announced that 8,200,000 men are now permanently under arms throughout the world. Of this total, 545,000 are attached to world navies. The league calculations show men under arms throughout the world just before the outbreak of the Great War numbered 5,900,000 not counting naval units.

The figures show that since 1931-32 world armies have increased 1,700,000 men. In Europe total armed forces are now 4,800,000 compared with 3,600,000 in 1931-32; the league statement said.

A league communiqué said the figures included only the admitted permanent armed forces, and did not include the so-called paramilitary forces or semi-permanent military organizations which "recently became very important."

(The foregoing statement was interpreted to mean Germany, where Chancellor Hitler said last summer increased the potential fighting forces to 800,000 through a plan of "labor units.")

CONTROL THE SWEEPSTAKES

Sweepstakes, except those operated by exhibition affairs or for church charities, are ultra vires of the criminal code. But they still operate and probably always will for there are few, if any, in the world today who would not take a chance on getting a thousand-fold return on a small investment. To a few unfortunate, in whose blood there is the virus of recklessness, sweepstakes are a curse, but most of us are able to take a sweepstake or leave it alone, depending upon the heftiness of our pocket book.

The present context of the law was designed primarily to protect those who, unable to control their gambling urge were suckers for every sweepstake, legitimately operated or otherwise, that came their way. Recent years have proved that prohibition has not reduced the number of sweepstakes by one iota; in every city and village in this broad dominion lottery or raffle tickets may be purchased. It's high time Ottawa decided that prohibition is not a success and that controlled sweepstakes, hedged with regulations to give protection from swindlers, would be more to the point.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH
ONCE IN A WHILE?

How to prove, when there is no witness, that you were telling the truth. You snapshot yourself and the fish with a self-timer right on the spot.

How often have you opened your snapshot album to view, once more, treasured pictures you have taken of groups of friends or of the family, and closed it with a feeling of regret that you did not appear in those pictures yourself? Or, how often, when you are showing somebody snapshots you took on a memorable occasion, do you hear the remark, "Where were you all this time?" Modestly you reply, "Why, I was just the man behind the camera. Somebody had to take the pictures." But really wouldn't you like to have been in those pictures? Of course, you would.

Obviously, one solution of this difficulty is to let some one else use your camera on these occasions and take some pictures with you in them. Good enough except that that somebody else—Dad or whoever it may be—is missing from them just as you were missing from the others.

There is another answer to this problem and a perfect one. Get a self-timer, which is the name for an attachment which permits most cameras other than the box type to take pictures unattended. ALBERTA'S POSITION
IS BASICALLY SOUND

Basic soundness in Alberta's economic position is revealed by a study of the total income of the province for the years 1930 to 1934 compared with the retail sales and costs of other services for which citizens spent their incomes during the period. Such a study, based on figures from the Elliott-Walker survey of provincial finances, shows that even at the depths of the depression Alberta's citizens, taken as a whole had a comfortable margin of income remaining when they had spent the necessary amounts on retail purchases and services.

In 1930 the total income of the province was $269,486,000. Retail sales totalled $207,256,000 and other services cost $28,151,000. The margin of income remaining was $34,079,000. From the point of view of margin of income, the year 1930 was the worst of the depression. In 1932, which is generally considered as having been the worst year for the rest of Canada, Alberta's total income had fallen to $225,683,000, but, with lowered costs of living, expenditures on goods and services had also declined and citizens had a margin of income amounting to $69,381,000, or roughly double that of 1930. For 1933 the latest year for which figures are available, total income is shown at $259,207,000, retail sales at $141,573,000, and other services at $27,068,000, leaving a margin of income for the years of $90,566,000.

Despite some sectional crop failures, it is probable that the economic position of Alberta's citizens as a whole has improved, or at least not deteriorated since 1934, and that therefore they have an annual margin of income amounting to approximately $90,000,000 after meeting their living expenses.

Here and There

Famous officers of the Canadian Pacific Railway and Sir John A. Macdonald, Prime Minister of Canada, arrived at Revelstoke recently and held a series of historic meetings. Among them were Donald A. Smith, George Stephen, James J. Hill, Van Horne and Shandham, names associated for the past half century with the construction of Canada's first transcontinental railway. The party actually comprised a group of film players portraying the historic characters in the ten-part board-room sequence of "The Great Barrier," Gaumont British picture depicting the strenuous railway construction days fifty years ago.

Says Gene Sarazen, one time world's champion golfer, writing of the Banff Springs Hotel course at the famous resort in the Rockies:—"That course of Banff is everything you said. Miss Helen Hicks and I played it against two guests at the hotel and we were beaten. With a huge gallery it may seem funny to hear my simple couldn't keep our minds on the game—the scenery was simply too much."

The first 1937 world cruise to set out from New York will be the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain which will sail January 9 for a voyage of 125 days, covering 29,000 miles and visiting 29 ports in 22 different countries. Among these countries are Palestine, Egypt, India, Ceylon, Malay Archipelago, the Philippines, China, Japan, Hawaii and back to New York via California, the Panama Canal and Havana.

Canada's first complete streamlined air-conditioned train, built for the Canadian Pacific Railway, now in operation with four units in different parts of the Dominion, has been placed on inspection at a number of points across the country and has aroused high praise and enthusiasm on the part of thousands of Canadians who have seen it. In Montreal alone 66,000 spectators went through it in the four days it was on inspection at the Windsor station and the same interest was displayed everywhere else. These units will be in operation between Toronto and Detroit, Montreal and Quebec, and Edmonton and Calgary.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and other delegates to the League of Nations Conference at Geneva sailed from Quebec in September in the Canadian Pacific flagship Empress of Britain. Accompanying the Premier was Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Government leader in the Senate and Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor.

Captain George Gould, new skipper of the Empress of Russia, made his first trip as master of the vessel early in September. It is his first command of a Pacific Empress, though he has served the fleet in all official capacities from fourth officer to staff-captain during the past 25 years.

Last of three motor parties visiting Canada this year, 14 British automobilists arrived recently at Quebec on the Empress of Britain. The motorcade under the organizer Graham Lyons, drove from Quebec to Montreal and will visit Ottawa, Toronto, London, Detroit, Cleveland, Washington and New York.

BELLEVUE HAPPENINGS

Armistice Day was observed here by a special service in the United church at 10.45. Rev. R. Upton occupied the pulpit and delivered an impressive sermon to a large congregation. Members of the B.E.S.L. and the Women's Auxiliary attended in a body, together with Girl Guides and Brownies. The senior church choir rendered two very appropriate numbers. G. W. Goodwin sounded "The Last Post," after which two minutes of silence for the honored dead was observed. Immediately following the church service, the veterans left for Frank to attend the service at the cenotaph.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Utley and girls spent a few days in Calgary this week.

Word was received on Sunday of the passing at Vancouver of Mrs. George Hill, of Passburg. Mrs. Hill went to the coast some time ago in the hope of recovering her health, but all efforts for her improvement seemed hopeless, and the end came on Sunday. She had been a resident of Passburg and district for quite a number of years. Left to mourn her passing are her husband, who was with her at the time of her death; and two sons, John, of Bellevue, and Fred at home in Passburg. The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. Hill and sons in their great loss.

Mrs. Shorthouse, of Newgate, stopped off here to spend the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Harrison on their way to England.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Key were visitors to Calgary last week end.

Mrs. D. Morris was a week end visitor to Medicine Hat, where she visited her son Joe, who is ill there.

Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Hutton were week end visitors to Lethbridge.

Mrs. H. Harrison is spending a few days in Medicine Hat.

Beatrice Radford entertained a number of friends at her home on Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hill and Fred Hill left on Monday by car for Vancouver to attend the funeral of their mother.

Will the Act Function?

The people of Alberta are entitled to judge for themselves the unfairness and injustice of The Reduction and Settlement of Debts Act. This is the first of a series of short statements concerning the Act, and its effect on you.

Will the Act function? Be it just or unjust, will it work? There are cases pending in the Courts in which the question of the validity of the Act is raised. Until the decision of the Courts is rendered, it is natural that lending companies cannot be expected in the meantime to prejudice their rights. Companies have been and are still prepared, regardless of what the decision of the Courts may be, to enter upon negotiations and explore all avenues in an effort to arrive at arrangements fair to debtor and creditor, a course which was recently followed by companies doing business in the Province of Saskatchewan.

Debtors should think over their position, and the doubtful security the Act might provide, before brushing aside the undertakings they entered into when they obtained their loans. Those who are not debtors should think what their position will be in a community where promises are lightly cast aside. If you cannot trust your neighbor—if your neighbor cannot trust you—what becomes of security and the basis upon which business and all other human relationships rest?

This statement is one of a series written by The Mortgage Lenders Association of the Province of Alberta. The Association is composed of 34 member companies. It represents hundreds of thousands of small investments by typical Canadians. Its loans to citizens of Alberta amount to some forty-five million dollars.

The Ladies' Aid of the United church was entertained by Mrs. Archie Swart at her home on Thursday afternoon, there being a good turnout.

On Wednesday morning of last week, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Littleton was saved from going up in flames. The roof caught fire at around 11 o'clock, supposed to have started from a live coal from the chimney lodging in the shingles, being fanned by the strong wind.

The fire was making considerable headway when first noticed, but was soon brought under control by the large crowd that gathered.

An epidemic of flu has been prevalent in the district for a few weeks, with several patients quite ill. It is thought that a change of weather would perhaps check the further spreading of the disease.

THIS LICENSING BUSINESS

Probably no body of men in the history of Canada has taken the tongue-lashing that Premier Aberhart has handed out to the newspaper people of Alberta during the twelve months that have elapsed since he was elected to the head of the government of this province. Notwithstanding the fact that he was elected to that responsible position in the teeth of the combined opposition of more than 90 per cent of the provincial newspapers, and notwithstanding the fact that the government that preceded his was first elected in the face of like opposition, and was given two further terms of office, still, in the face of that opposition, Mr. Aberhart apparently wishes the people of Alberta to believe that newspaper opposition is fatal to the success of government policy in this province. Newspaper opposition has not killed any of the plans put forward by the present government. The registration for Social Credit went forward in accordance with the plan, and many thousands of Alberta citizens signed the covenants. The Prosperity Bond issue was taken up by many merchants throughout the province, and the chief obstacle to its success was not the reluctance of the merchants to take the certificates, but the reluctance of the plan's vocal supporters to accept them in change. As far as Red Deer was concerned, the majority of the business people took some of the bonds, and would have taken more had their customers been willing to take them in change. It was not the merchants' fault, nor was it the newspapers' fault, that the plan did not work out better. Newspaper opinion on the new Debt Adjustment Act, and on the Reduction of Debts Act, and on the other legislation passed at the recent short session was by no means unanimously against the government, and many of the papers in the province, ever since the election, have been willing to give the new government an opportunity to work out the plans on which they were elected. To these papers, and they are in the majority, this continual unjust berating of their calling has become tiresome, and the latest announcement that the licensing of all newspapers in the province is to be considered, will rouse them to defence of their rights which they hold as representatives of the people.

During the year the Aberhart government has been in office, the Advocate has tried not to hamper their work. It believes that they were elected by the majority of the people of this province to put their Social Credit ideas into operation, and this paper has endeavored to give them a clear field. Such criticism that has been offered, the Advocate thinks, has been fair and warranted, and has always been made with a view to furthering the best interests of this province and of its people—all of them. For more than thirty-five years the Advocate has been going to the people of this district week by week, trying to help them along in their difficult task of building up their homes, their communities, and their province. It has been able to help in many community and provincial enterprises in that time. It has not found it necessary to tell lies or to impute unworthy motives to parties or individuals with whom it differed, and it owes allegiance to no individual or to no group. It is owned and controlled and produced right here in Red Deer, and it hopes that it has been of some value to this town and district, but it would warn the people of this district that if they want an independent press to continue, they must make their influence felt, and felt right away. To act of this province would be a blow to our democratic institutions that would have most serious consequences and the Advocate would urge the government, in the interests of the people of the province as a whole, to have nothing to do with any proposal of this kind—Red Deer Advocate.

Insurance For Pedestrians

No Matter Where Fault Lies

With 250,000 people killed or injured on British roads in a year, an association has been formed with the approval of the Ministry of Transport for the purpose of insuring pedestrians against accident, compensating them whether the car or themselves are to blame. As the law stands at present a pedestrian can not claim compensation if it is found that the accident was due to his own negligence. To bridge the gap the Public Safety Association has been formed. The subscription is only the equivalent of $1.25 a year. The protection for this sum is up to $500, part of which is paid in a lump sum and the balance in weekly amounts.

Mining Capital Centres Interest in Athabasca

Several New Companies In Process Of Formation With Powerful Backing To Develop Massive Ore Zone In Areas Near Smelters And Athabasca Operations

Developments are taking place in Lake Athabasca area in northern Saskatchewan that promise to bring this new field into great prominence. The Athabasca area was first placed on the map by the exploration and development of two properties located in close proximity along the north shore of Lake Athabasca by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada and Athabasca Mines Limited. At the present time, however, several companies are being formed, with strong capital backing, to acquire and develop several large holdings in adjacent areas which will serve to focus attention of mining interests generally in this field.

New discoveries are being made of massive proportions. Preliminary exploration at various points has disclosed one zone containing high values not only in gold, but silver and other precious metals, as well as quantities of other base metals which are understood to have brought an outstanding group into the picture.

Three New Enterprises As an indication of what is transpiring, Borealis Syndicate was formed some months ago to prospect in the Athabasca area. Important discoveries are reported. One gold mine, sold at $500,000 can not be purchased for less than $1,000,000.

Three discoveries are reported to have been uncovered on the various Borealis groups two of which are reported to be gold-bearing and one a huge deposit of mineral-bearing ore, including nickel, copper, silver and gold. This enterprise is stated to be passing from the syndicate stage to be succeeded by a company in which wealthy mining interests will participate.

On a second property, the exact location of which has not been disclosed, assaying of ore has been under way for a considerable period, with such results that a company is being incorporated to acquire and develop the property. It is a gold enterprise.

A third new enterprise is Mineral Belt Locators Syndicate, four miles east of Athabasca Mines, and in property enrichments in several minerals are said to have been disclosed including copper, cobalt, gold and pitchblende, with dimensions and results that warrant formation of a company and exploration and development on a large scale.

Pioneer Developments Success is understood to have attended the formation of the pioneer enterprises. Work at the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company mine has been carried forward tentatively. Early this year the statement was made that the company intended to build a 750-ton initial mill, but developments have since altered the picture, it is understood, that a much larger mill is planned.

Developments have been carried forward rapidly at Athabasca. Two shafts are down, one to the second level and the other to the first level. Lateral work from the two shafts has opened up three major ore zones in all of which commercial ore is being developed.

Developments underground in the Athabasca field so far are believed to have demonstrated that deposits were derived from an intrusive rock long after the intrusion of granite. Where gold occurs in the granite, they appear in quartz veins, indicating that they came in through fracture planes.

The massive sedimentary zone reported to have been discovered on the Athabasca property this summer, which is gold-bearing, suggests that fracturing of the granite and quartzite took place at the same time and that actual mineral deposition took place at a later period from an igneous mass below. Mineralization in these two types of rock is identical.

Latest information on the discovery in the quartzite zone on Athabasca shows that it is tremendously important. Channel sampling to date having shown $10 to $12 ore over widths of from 12 to 16 feet in distinct zones. Sampling of the entire mass is not yet completed.

Crown Jewels Well Guarded

Alarm Was Recently Sounded But It Proved A Mistake

It was precisely 12:30 p.m. in the Tower of London. The usual crowd of visitors was passing through Wakefield Tower, where glimmer from velvet beds the imperial and royal jewels of the Crown. These famous Crown jewels are exposed behind bullet-proof sheets of glass and guards are constantly on the alert. Steel doors lead to the jewel room.

Suddenly the steel doors closed of themselves. No more visitors could enter; those within were shut up with the guards. Simultaneously, there was the crash of the alarm gongs. From the corridors without came sharp words of command, the clatter of military boots, the thud of rifle butts on the pavement, the rattle of trappings and of bayonets being fixed.

But, at the end of the ten minutes, no foiled smash-and-grab raid appeared under arrest. The guard was dismissed. The visitors drifted away. It was all a mistake. Whose mistake it was nobody could discover. The Newspaper Proprietors' Association had obtained permission to photograph the regalia for publication when the coronation draws near. At lunch time the photographers stopped work. As the shutters which guard the jewels were closed, the alarm went off. Just like that.

Photographing the jewels was an elaborate function. The photographers and other officials presented their permits, specially issued by the Lord Chamberlain. Carefully the guards at the entrance to the Wakefield Tower checked the names against a list supplied to them. In the jewel room itself more wardens were on guard.

The keeper of the Crown Jewels, Major Gen. Sir George Youngblood, and the Crown Jeweller were present. The Crown Jeweller took the St. Edward's crown and the rest of the regalia which will be used at the coronation, together with the two imperial State crowns and the crown worn by William of Orange, from the cases.

The photographers knew exactly how the shots were to be taken, for the difficulty of working in such confined quarters had made it necessary to hold a dress rehearsal in the studio with plaster copies of the regalia. Special lighting arranged by the Office of Works was used to modify the blaze of the jewels, which included the great ruby given to the Black Prince, worn by Henry V. at Agincourt and now set in one of the Imperial State crowns.

Designing New Medals

Three Classes Are To Be Struck For Coronation

Three classes of Coronation medals are to be struck. These will include the official medal which will be designed by the Mint; a medal in silver or bronze with one side designed by the Mint and the reverse left clear for municipal coats of arms or other required designs, and medals designed by the individual medalist, says the Manchester Guardian.

Care must be taken to ensure that the portraits of the King on medals are worthy of the occasion, and a joint committee has been formed to which specimens can be submitted for approval.

The royal commemorative medal issued for the Coronation of King Edward VI. is generally accepted as the first English Coronation medal, for few medals were struck before 1847. This medal is now one of the rarest of such tokens.

Of all Coronation medals issued none has caused more controversy than that executed nearly 100 years ago by Piatucci, the royal medalist, for the Coronation of Queen Victoria. One medalist of the time described the medal as "unquestionably the most censurable medal in the English series." The excuse offered was that the royal medalist had only three months in which to prepare it. Criticism of the medal was taken to the House of Commons, where a short debate took place in the evening of July 9, 1838.

Famous Sword Stolen

Two-Handed Sword Of William Wallace Taken From Museum

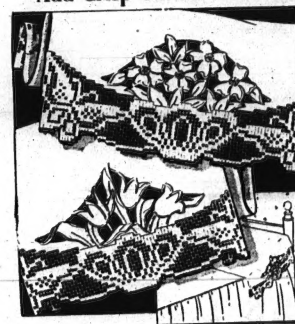

The famed two-handed sword of Sir William Wallace, Scottish patriot of the middle ages, was stolen from the National Wallace Museum by four masked men.

The quartet of raiders locked up the aged curator, smashed a glass case on the fourth floor in which the weapon was displayed, and escaped. Police said that the men told the curator they were Scottish Nationalists. The secretary of the Nationalist society denied the accusation.

The sword, five feet six inches long, was kept in Dumbarton castle from the time of Wallace's death in 1305 until 1888, when it was placed in the monumental museum.

Art critics of the South Australia's centenary stamp are writing the papers describing it as "like a jam label."

Plans Are Elaborate

Police Working To Make London Safe For Coronation

Police plans for felling the Coronation crooks are well advanced. They are more elaborate than anything of the kind hitherto attempted.

Nothing will be left to chance. Every possible emergency has been taken into account.

Fortunately, there are no fears as to any probable trouble involving injury to life or limb. It is the crook who would like to take advantage of the presence of great crowds and riches to practise his nefarious arts that the authorities have in mind. The confidence trickster, the pick-pocket, and the burglar—particularly the "cat" variety—and the light-fingered gentry generally, are the persons against whom the precautions are being taken.

The Special Branch of the "Yard"—working in conjunction with the Secret Service men—are in intimate touch with the police of Continental countries, and are having their full co-operation in making London safe for the tens of thousands of visitors who will be there for the coronation.

During the last six months a round-up of foreigners has been going on. As a result, it is expected that long before May next there will not be a single alien in the country whose whereabouts are unknown to the police.

In this comb-out, those whose presence is undesirable, or whose permits have expired, will be quietly deported.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 7:2-4.

Explanations And Comments

The Imprisonment at Rome, Acts 28:16. On reaching Rome, Paul was allowed to live by himself, in his own hired dwelling, verse 30, but he was in charge of a soldier to whom he was chained. Soldiers relieved one another on this duty, and thus Paul became known throughout the Praetorian Guard, Phil. 1:12, 13. He never described himself as a prisoner of Rome, but always as a prisoner of Jesus Christ.

There were three kinds of custody recognized by Roman law: the severest was confinement in the public jail, dungeons where were Paul and Silas at Philippi; free custody, where the accused, a Roman of high rank, was in the charge of a magistrate; senator who was made responsible for the presence of the accused on the day of trial; and military custody, when the prisoner's right hand was chained to a soldier's left.

At Rome Paul was held in military custody, but instead of being obliged to live in the barracks, was permitted to have his own hired dwelling. For this special favor he may have been indebted to the good report sent by Festus and the gratitude of Julius.

Addressing the Leading Jews of Rome, Acts 28:17-22. Paul gave himself only a brief three days' rest before he summoned the leading Jews to meet him, and told them of his experiences; how, although he had in no way violated the customs of their fathers, he had been delivered up by the authorities of Jerusalem to Roman authorities as a prisoner. The latter had been ready to set him at liberty, but when the Jews opposed this he had been forced to appeal to Caesar. He had sent for his listeners to justify himself; it was because of the hope of Israel, the Messianic hope, that he had been put in chains. The Jews politely remarked that they had had neither written nor verbal report from Jerusalem concerning him. This they believed, because he had said so, although they knew that this sect (speaking of the sect of the Nazarenes, Acts 24:5, as they would of the sect of the Sadducees) was everywhere condemned.

Preaching to Jews and then to Gentiles at Rome, Acts 28:23-31. A special day was appointed when great numbers of Jews came to Paul's lodging to hear him, and he proclaimed to them the spiritual nature of the Kingdom of God. The common Jewish belief was in a temporal kingdom, and by recalling the law and the prophets Paul endeavored to persuade them concerning Jesus. As always, some believed and some disbelieved.

For two whole years Paul abode in his own hired house, and to all who came to hear him he proclaimed the Kingdom of God, and taught them concerning Jesus, speaking with all boldness, no one forbidding him.

When a man says he's never done anything to be ashamed of he means he's never been ashamed of anything he's done.
